Our young friend, Mr. Kelton E. White, of St. Louis, has most generously provided and had placed in position a number of signboards at various road crossings adjacent to Ironton. This is most commendable in Mr. White and will be greatly appreciated by the traveling public. Everyone should be interested in preserving these posts; and any one destroying them will be prosecuted.

This is one of the largest fruit deals ever made in this section of the state and goes to show what can be done with an orchard when it is given the attention and scientific care that the Krehbiel fruit farm has received. An Earnest Appeal.

The Arcadia Valley Business Men's League has been working faithfully for more than a year to stock Lake Killarney with game fish. That organization has succeeded in getting supplies of young fish from the state, and from the government, and another allotment is expected soon. Every one is requested NOT TO FISH IN THE LAKE. The young fish are doing nicely, and if let alone for a year or two, until they begin to multiply, there will be good fishing for all of us. Won't you lend a helping hand toward getting the lake stocked?

School Notes.

There will be a meeting of the Mothers' and Patrons' Club Wednesday, October 13th. There should be one hundred patrons present at every meeting. The school belongs to the public and the public should aid in moulding the future destiny of the school.

The first Basket Ball game of the season will be played with Piedmont on Saturday, October 23d, at Ironton, on the Ironton High School Basketball Court.

Half a unit's credit will be given the two debaters selected for the Piedmont-Ironton Debate. The question for debate will be, "Resolved that the Philippine Islands should be granted their independence."

The students and teachers of the Ironton Public School extend thanks to the Board of Education for the excellent list of reference books which were purchased recently for the English and History classes.

The Teachers' Training Class has been observing some excellent language work in the third and fourth grades recently. These grades are conducted by Miss Alma Kendal.

Four students in the Roelle School are doing extra work under Herman Lueddecke, the Valedictorian of last year's Graduating Class. Prof. Raymond Shoop, of the Ironton Public Schools, once each week reads the papers of these students and grades them. These young ladies are completing entering the Ironton High School at a later date. The only question about their not being admitted is the question of having enough room for them. The High School is already over-crowded, and the question of admitting new students is becoming a serious one.

Echoes From Arcadia Valley.

With the bright sunshine of October, and the gentle winds whispering secrets in the tall branches of the lordly chestnut trees, the pupils of Arcadia College are mingling their outdoor sports with a zest that is gratifying to witness, and worthy of the credits they shall receive at the next period.

At an early hour of 7:30 a. m., large and small are seen with a leap and a jump wending their way through the broad gravel walks to have a game before the five-minute bell announces that class will begin promptly at 8 a. m., when all repair to the commodious recitation hall in preparation for a day of close application.

At the noon hour the one theme of interest is the reading of letters from father, mother, and dear ones. A letter, my kingdom for a letter to read at 12:30 M. Running to impart the contents of these precious lines to some companions is the sport of that recreation.

But, when class period is over, then comes the hour of genuine, real game playing.

The Freshman and Sophomore have organized a team or basket ball, with Miss Loretto Dorney of Kansas City for umpire.

The Freshman or "Planets" are practicing to play the Sophomore or "Stars" on the feast of St. Ursula, the 21st inst. Indeed, there is no time to be wasted in preparation for the race.

The Juniors and Seniors find great pleasure in the more strenuous game of base-ball—the agility and muscle developed in the past month is astonishing. Even those who sought Arcadia for their abode on account of delicate health are beginning to show improvement in avoiddups, due, no doubt, to the liberal supply of luscious, invigorating air, the regular life and the abundant supply of rosy-cheeked apples which the students gather from the heavily laden trees.

The Tennis and Association leagues are also in preparation for the approaching feast.

For the few minims,—well, they and the squirrels are so busy this past week gathering their winter store of chestnuts, hazel and hickory nuts that much cannot be said of their outdoor sports, but the indoor games that come before retiring tell, by the rippling laughter accompanying them, that much fun is going on in the lower recreation hall.

Right now they are busy, too, practicing their first lessons in "fancy steps," a part of the physical culture curriculum much encouraged.

Lessons in Indian clubs, dumbbells, wand drills, fencing and the aesthetic exercises of Delarte besides dancing, occupy part of every evening's entertainment during the fall and winter seasons.

Two fine billiard tables, the generous gift of the pastor, the Rev. L. C. Wernert, will afford much pleasure to the Seniors and Juniors. With all this attention given to physical training, surely the pupils of Arcadia should go from the College portals well equipped with physical as well as intellectual development.

Notice to the Public.

Des Arc Items.

Last Thursday evening, about six o'clock, Elijah Myers passed away very suddenly at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. E. Farr, in Des Arc. He had eaten a hearty supper and getting up from the table walked out into the yard. His sister, hearing a noise at the window, looked out and saw him beckoning to her to come. She hurried to him, but he was dead. He called to a neighbor and he carried him into the house, but he was dead. "Lige," as we called him, had lived away from Des Arc for a number of years, but always called this place his home. He had been in poor health for some time at his home in Des Arc. His sister went over to see him about two weeks ago and brought him to her home, thinking the change would prove beneficial. I was talking with him Sunday. He seemed much better and was planning to return to his home in Des Arc. He was a member of the Bismarck Baptist church, a good Christian and ready to meet his God. He was a member of Des Arc Camp, M. W. A. The funeral was conducted by Bro J. L. Strader from the Baptist church, after which the body was laid to rest in the family lot. To the wife and children, especially the sister, who was so faithful to him in his last illness, we extend our heartfelt sympathy. May God bless and protect them in his prayer! Among the relatives who were here to attend the funeral were: Mrs. E. Myers and two children, Jas. Jamison and family from Pilot Knob, Curlew Myers and family from Ironton; Earnest Peck and family from Piedmont.

I boarded No. 4, with my better half, last Sunday, and in one hour we were at Bismarck, 41 miles away. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Morris met us there with their car, and in one hour more we were in Farmington. How fast we are living! Fifty years ago it would have required two days to make this trip. Sunday night, with my old and best friend in Missouri, J. M. Morris, we went to the church to hear Dr. E. H. Lester, formerly a Confederate soldier. He lectured on the Life and Character of Gen. R. E. Lee. He was adjutant to him during the war and was his secretary while at Lexington, Virginia, up to the time of his death. It was very interesting to hear him. He was sent there by the Daughters of the Confederacy. God bless the dear old rebels! I like to meet them and talk over our hard times during the war. Only the soldiers can raise what we went through, but, thank God, there is a bright day coming!

On Tuesday night I went to the Baptist church at Charleston, with some traveling men. The services were conducted by Rev. Dew. The Baptists there have a fine church with pipe organ and piano. The music is excellent. Rev. Dew's text was, "The Way of the Transgressor is Hard." The solo by his wife, "Do You Want to do Something for Jesus?" was beautiful and sad. They closed with "Marry at last, dear's Tomb." It was the first time I had heard it since I left my old home in Virginia. It brought back sweet memories of the past.

Business in Southeast Missouri is improving. The agent at Marquand said he had orders for 80 cars for ties to be shipped by E. J. Hanna and others. There were three crews loading out 5 to 10 cars a day at Lutesville, and a crew at Glen Allen. Every tie will be shipped out by November 1st. The teachers' meeting here Saturday afternoon was quite a success. The program was very interesting. County Superintendent G. W. Hanson was present and teachers from Sabula, Annapolis and Brant. These meetings are very profitable and should be attended by teachers, patrons and the school boards.

Harrison White was here from St. Louis last week to visit his mother.

Mrs. J. H. Stevenson went to Hendrickson last week to visit her sister. Mrs. John Reed has returned from a visit with relatives in Illinois.

Teachers' Meeting.

The Teachers' Meeting at Des Arc, October 9, was a success in every way. Teachers, scholars, and patrons assembled in the school building, which was very prettily decorated with flags, pennants and autumn leaves. The blackboards were covered with school work and some very fine drawings.

The program, prepared by Superintendent Hanson, was alternated with literary numbers, both teachers and scholars succeeding equally well.

Space does not allow a full discussion of the program. Among the best selections were: "A Boy's Remarks to His Stomach," Carroll Farr, "The Child's Child," Eleanor Brewington; "Return of Regulus," Jesse Loyd, "The songs, "America for Me," and "Hurrah for the Public School," were also fine. After the meeting, an athletic contest was enjoyed by all.
